Polyglass Welcomes New Vice President of Sales

(Fernley, NV) – Polyglass®, a leading manufacturer of modified bitumen roofing products, is pleased to welcome Todd Homa as the new Vice President of Sales.

Homa brings extensive background and experience from the sales and roofing industries to his new position. After a short career in banking, in which he generated loans for the commercial and construction sectors, Homa joined Elk Corporation as a regional sales manager. In this capacity, Homa managed 14 sales districts, working directly with regional and national accounts, and produced the most profitable region within his company for two consecutive years.

Because of this significant achievement, Homa was promoted to North American Director of Sales, and while in this position, significantly increased sales through one-step and two-step distribution channels. Homa also successfully managed the introduction of new composite materials into Elk's product line.

"We are pleased that Todd has joined Polyglass to lead our sales efforts on a national level," said Andy Hastings, Chief Operating Officer of Polyglass. "Todd's finance and roofing backgrounds will be a complement to, and driver of, our short-term and long-term sales and financial strategies. We look to Todd to expand the Polyglass sales footprint nationwide. Todd will be instrumental to the successful introduction of new Polyglass products."
